Founded	1992
Financial Status	Privately held
Headquarters	Draper, UT USA
Mission	Learnframe has developed a universal learning infrastructure technology that bridges the knowledge divide and allows information access to anyone, at any time, from anywhere in the world. Learnframe provides e-Learning technology in an open architecture that integrates any courseware or application on the market. Learnframe's mission is to be "The Framework of e-Learning."
Software Platform	Learnframe's newest product Nebo™, a Universal Platform™ and knowledge hub is a complete integration platform. KnowledgE-Commerce™ solutions include Nebo, Pinnacle™, the Learnframe Learning Center™ and hosting services through which organizations can create their own customized corporate university and access over 170,000 titles from 100-plus vendors for training on a wide variety of topics.
Competitive Differentiation	Learnframe has developed advanced learning technologies since its inception in 1992. In 1995, Learnframe created the only open architecture learning management system that integrates any courseware or third-party application. The primary distinction between Learnframe's technology and its competitors is their universal connectivity infrastructure, allowing Learnframe products to integrate without any changes to Learnframe or third-party applications. Learnframe's Professional Services group manages client relationships, product scope analysis and ensures project completion, product delivery and client satisfaction.
Applications	The combination of Learnframe's newest product Nebo — a Universal Platform and knowledge hub, Pinnacle Learning Manager — an e-Learning infrastructure, and the Learnframe Learning Center — a knowledge commerce front end, defines KnowledgE-Commerce — the point where e-Learning and e-commerce converge. Learnframe also provides web-based content delivery, hosting and re-branding services, and one of the largest online libraries of CBT courses on the market. Learnframe's AdminSTAR™ provides resource management and scheduling as well as skills assessment.
